

KATHARINE HAYHOE

Wednesday, April 12 // 7pm // University of Arizona ENR2
1064 E. Lowell Street, Rm N120

WHY FACTS ARE NOT ENOUGH

Climate change is just a natural cycle; the science isn't settled. And if God is in control, there's nothing we can do about it, anyway. Right?

Katharine Hayhoe, an atmospheric scientist at Texas Tech University, is known for her work on regional climate impacts and for sharing her research with faith-based communities. Join Dr. Hayhoe as she explores pathways to productive discussion about climate change: moving past the smokescreens to address the real objections and beginning conversations with values we share, rather than facts we disagree on.

Learn more here:
<https://youtu.be/nkMljbDtdo0>

